

Free training for Regional Trading Standard Teams

QASSS owns and operates consumer protection schemes in the home improvement market and we are proud of our connections to the trading standards profession. One of our codes of practice is around renewable energy.

We can supply a short training session exclusively for trading standards officers on what to look out for when dealing with renewable installers or conducting investigations into criminal activity relating to renewables. This session would be ideal for branch meetings or regional groups.

About the trainer:

Adrian Simpson is Director of Policy and Regulatory Affairs at QASSS and a Chartered Trading Standards Practitioner and Lead Officer. Prior to his current role he was a Service Director at the Chartered Trading Standards Institute and held various roles in Trading Standards Services.

W: www.qasss.co.uk

W: www.hiesscheme.org.uk

Renewable Energy Sector FREE Training

The session will cover:

- When an installer can claim that they are 'working with government'
- What government subsidies are actually available
- Where consumers can go for free, independent advice and dispute resolution
- Scams and fraud associated with renewables
- How QASSS can help with criminal investigations
- What the future will be for renewables
- Opportunity to ask questions

For further information or to book your session, email Adrian Simpson at a.simpson@hiesscheme.org.uk